NEW QUESTION: 3

You are a professional level SQL Server 2005 database administrator in an international corporation named Wiikigo. You are experienced in implementing high-availability solutions, monitoring the database server, and design deployment. In the company, your major job is the deployment, maintenance and support of Microsoft SQL Server 2005. You work as the database administrator for your company. A database named DB1 is used by the company. The SQL statements used to create the Sales table in DB1, an existing index, and the two most common queries executed against this table are shown in the exhibit. The existing indexes have just been rebuilt. The VideoID and VideoTitle fields are highly selective. The RetailPrice, WholesalePrice and Genre fields have low selectivity. Since you are the technical support, the company asks you to optimize the performance of both queries. The company also requires that you must reduce the size of the index to the least when trying to achieve this goal. What action should you perform to accomplish your task?

- A. On the VideoTitle and RetailPrice columns, a clustered index should be created.
- B. On the Barcode and VideoID fields, a nonclustered index should be created. The WholesalePrice and Genre fields should be included.
- C. On the VideoTitle field, drop the clustered index. On the VideoTitle field, a nonclustered index should be created.
- D. On the VideoTitle, Barcode, VideoID, WholesalePrice, and Genre fields, a nonclustered index should be created.
- E. You should use the REORGANIZE option to change the existing nonclustered index.
