NEW QUESTION: 2
Senior management commitment and support for information security can BEST be obtained through presentations that:
A. use illustrative examples of successful attacks.

B. tie security risks to key business objectives.
C. explain the technical risks to the organization.
D. evaluate the organization against best security practices.
Answer: B
Explanation:
Explanation
Senior management seeks to understand the business justification for investing in security. This can best be accomplished by tying security to key business objectives.
Senior management will not be as interested in technical risks or examples of successful attacks if they are not tied to the impact on business environment and objectives. Industry best practices are important to senior management but, again, senior management will give them the right level of importance when they are presented in terms of key business objectives.
